Fierce fines for fly-tippers

New powers for £400-on-the-spot charge

PEOPLE who dump rubbish on the streets of Royal Greenwich face an on-the-spot fine of £400 under new powers to tackle fly-tipping.

It's part of a concerted campaign by the royal borough to crackdown on irresponsible residents who refuse to make use of the council's waste removal and recycling services.

New powers bestowed on local authorities through the Unauthorised Deposit of Waste (Fixed Penalties) Regulations now make it easier for council enforcement officers to issue on-the-spot fixed penalty notices of up to £400 for fly-tipping and go on to secure prosecutions.

These new powers are matched by

Awards for 124 young heroes

A HUNDRED and twenty-four young people from 17 royal borough schools were honoured at the prestigious Jack Petchey Foundation Achievement Awards at The O2 Arena last week (June 8).

The event recognised local young people aged 11 to 25 who had received Achievement Awards following nominations by their peers and leaders.

The winners were presented with a medallion, certificate and a cheque for £200.

Eight adults were also celebrated with Leader Awards, receiving a medallion and a framed certificate. They were recognised for demonstrating an outstanding ability to motivate young people.

East End born businessman Sir Jack Petchey started the Foundation in 1999 to recognise the positive contributions young people make to society and to support them in achieving their potential. Since then it has provided support to a wide range of 2,000 youth initiatives across London and Essex and reached a milestone investment of £100m.

This year's winners included Maya Holmes, Georgina Holness and Demi Stickland, all aged 11 from Thomas Tallis School. They were recognised for raising over £100 for the Greenwich Community Hospice in a cake sale after a burglary.

Daniel Abeshin, 16, from St Paul's Academy also won an award for his involvement in multiple volunteering

Big support for small charities

A WEEK of events to highlight and promote small charities is running until Saturday (June 18).

Small Charity Week is a national campaign, which includes free activities and initiatives to celebrate and raise the profile of charities with a turnover of less than £1.5m.

The week has been organised as a series of themed events and activities to celebrate the contribution small charities make to communities, support charities and encourage public giving.

Initiatives include: a Big advice Day, where small charities can 1:1 get advice on a range of topics; Policy Day, when charities can engage with policy makers; Fundraising day, offering ideas for raising money; Volunteering Day with a focus on recruiting, supporting and celebrating volunteers and Celebration Day on Saturday.

The campaign, now in its seventh year, was founded by the Foundation for Social Improvement (FSI) to raise the profile of the small charity sector.

In the royal borough many small charities are supported by GAVS – Greenwich Action for Voluntary Service which offers advice, events and training for local voluntary, community and faith groups. Member organisations are invited to a GAVS workshop 'How to Fundraise Successfully,' at its base in Woolwich as part of events for the week.

GAVS chief executive Naomi Goldberg said: "GAVS is committed to helping small charities get the support they need. Small charities in Greenwich play a vital role in identifying need and providing solutions - often plugging important gaps in services, so it is crucial they get the support they need to function well."

The service is supported by the royal borough and Councillor Denise Scott-McDonald, the royal borough's cabinet member for culture, creative industries and community wellbeing, said: "Small Charity Week celebrates and raises awareness of the essential work of small charities. By supporting the work of GAVS, the council is helping scores of local organisations to make an invaluable contribution to the lives of individuals and communities all year round."

an all-out offensive on the borough's fly-tippers with new measures which include:

- Dedicated taskforce teams concentrating their efforts on the areas in most need who can provide a rapid response and gather information
- New signage across the borough making it explicit that fly-tipping is a serious offence which will be met with serious fines and prosecution
- A drive to advertise the bulky waste

- Additional support for the Environment Champions Scheme and resident associations, especially in litter picks and clean-up efforts.

Cllr Jackie Smith, the cabinet member for community safety and environment, said: "We are re-doubling our efforts in tackling enviro-crime in the borough, especially fly-tipping which isn't just irresponsible and inconsiderate; it's illegal and will be treated as a serious offence. Residents can be assured that we have heard their concerns on fly-tipping loud and clear; we are listening and we are responding."

NHS choir to star at Glastonbury

GLASTONBURY BOUND: the choir is ready for all weathers

NOT content with beating Justin Bieber to the number 1 spot in the Christmas charts, the Lewisham and Greenwich NHS Choir are now headlining at the UK's top music festival.

The choir has packed its wellies and brollies, and will be opening the famous Pyramid stage at Glastonbury on Saturday, June 25 where the likes of Adele, Coldplay and Squeeze will be playing later in the day.

The 30-minute set coincides with the release of their debut album, Something Inside So Strong. Caroline Smith, children's physiotherapist at Lewisham and Greenwich NHS Trust, said: "This is amazing and a bit surreal. We can't believe that we are performing at Glastonbury with many of our heroes the day after our debut album is being released."

"Our goal is to celebrate the NHS and all its amazing staff, so to do this at Glastonbury is a dream come true."

The choir recorded the album in their spare time and all royalties earned will go into Lewisham and Greenwich NHS Trust's charitable funds.

● The album is released on Decca Records on June 24 and can be pre-ordered – go to www.nhschoir.com

Lift closed at Abbey Wood station

THE lift on platform 1 lift at Abbey Wood station will be closed from tomorrow (Wednesday June 15) until Wednesday June 22 to construct the new Kent-bound platform. Affected passengers are advised to speak to station office staff. The other lifts will be working as normal but the closure means passengers requiring a lift who are coming to Abbey Wood to catch a London bound train and those coming from Kent and alighting at Abbey Wood will need to use the nearest accessible station.

It's oh so quiet!

RESIDENTS can now cycle to the South Bank and back using the first of seven new Quietways after the new route was launched this month by Transport for London (TfL).

The first in the new initiative, the Waterloo to Greenwich Quietway offers cyclists a more scenic and relaxing route when cycling through Greenwich, Lewisham, Southwark and Lambeth.

The new Quietways are a network of cycle routes throughout London that focus on linking destinations via backstreet routes, through parks, along waterways or tree-lined streets. The routes will overcome barriers to cycling, targeting cyclists who want to use quieter, low-traffic routes, providing an environment for those cyclists who want to travel at a gentler pace.

TfL is working in partnership with London boroughs to deliver the next six Quietway routes by spring 2017.

Council funding boost for Greenwich Theatre

A CASH injection from the royal borough is set to launch Greenwich Theatre into an exciting new era.

The makeover of the historic theatre in Crooms Hill, which dates back to 1855, will begin with repair work on the building's roof.

Some rewiring, front-of-house improvements and the creation of a new studio theatre are also included in the redevelopment plan.

The investment from the council represents a significant contribution to Greenwich Theatre's ongoing efforts to raise funds to complete its programme of renovation.

When completed its facilities will be modernised and improved, boosting its reputation as an excellent centre for emerging theatre companies, and as a local landmark.

Artistic and executive director James Haddrell said: "This investment by the council represents a major commitment to culture at a time when arts funding is dwindling around the country. There are significant works scheduled, which mark the start of the long-term plans for the repair and development of this historic theatre."

The makeover of the theatre's building is part of the council's continuing commitment to supporting the arts, and to building Royal Greenwich's growing reputation as a centre of culture.

Council leader Denise Hyland said: "The royal borough is pleased to be working with Greenwich Theatre to help them carry out these improvements which will help ensure its viability into the future."

"We are committed to supporting Greenwich Theatre's work and are proud that our contribution helps the theatre to put on performance and participatory activities from the Greenwich Children's Theatre Festival to the popular annual pantomime."

Up the garden path

GLORIOUS green spaces will welcome visitors as part of the Open Garden Squares Weekend. Over Saturday and Sunday June 18 & 19, three gardens in the royal borough are participating in the annual event, which involves over 200 green spaces across the capital.

The beautiful and relaxing Ballast Quays in Greenwich (SE10 9PD) plays host to an exhibition of photographs of the landscape by local photographers and a display by the group Men In Sheds. It is open from 10am to 5pm on both days.

The 19th century St George's Garrison Church will also host Open Garden Squares events over the weekend. The church is a hidden gem and contains a Victoria Cross Memorial to the Royal Artillery, as well as the glorious Venetian mosaic of St. George and the dragon and flowerbeds, bursting with a variety of roses and wildflowers. This weekend there will be a plant sale and tea, coffee and homemade cakes will be on offer. It is open from 11am to 5pm on both days.

Charlton Manor primary school will also be opening its Green Flag awarded garden to the public this weekend. There will be tea, coffee and school-made cakes available, with pond-dipping alongside a tour of the garden. Opening times are 10am to 5pm on Saturday and 10am to 3pm on Sunday.

Charlton Manor headteacher Tim Baker explained: "Charlton Manor was invited to take part in the Open Garden Squares about six years ago. We have

Two of a kind

Community leaders move on to new roles

GREENWICH said a grateful farewell to two of its most influential leaders at a farewell reception last Tuesday (June 7). Borough Commander, Helen Millichap, and Bishop of Woolwich, Dr Michael Ippgrave are both leaving the royal borough to continue their good work in other parts of the country.

The mayor, Cllr Olu Babatola opened the evening, and he was followed by council leader Denise Hyland. Speaking of the Borough Commander, she said: "She leaves the borough having achieved the lowest burglary rates for over 15 years, as well as the highest level of satisfaction amongst victims of crime in any London borough."

Cllr Hyland said of Bishop Michael: "In a diverse and vibrant borough such as ours it was refreshing to find a steady pair of hands working with the multi faith groups."

Detective Chief Superintendent Helen Millichap joined the Metropolitan Police in 1997 and served in several other boroughs, as well as in the Counter Terrorism Command before taking over as Borough Commander in Royal Greenwich two years ago. In her leaving speech she focused on 'partnership' as a main theme, saying: "Whether it is by being in schools, by working with faith communities or problem-solving in our neighbourhoods, it is through these partnerships that we will succeed." She is moving Haringey as part of a reorganisation within the Metropolitan Police.

After more than 20 years ministry in Leicestershire and Japan, Bishop Michael became Archdeacon of Southwark in 2004. He was awarded the OBE in the new year's honours list in 2011 for services to inter-faith relations in London. In 2012 he was elected Area Bishop of Woolwich and is now leaving to take up his new post as Bishop of Lichfield.

In his parting words Bishop Michael said: "Greenwich is a vibrant, joyful and resourceful borough, where people are particularly well connected with one another, and it has been my privilege to serve in partnership with so many valued colleagues."

Ecology park open day

GREENWICH Peninsula Ecology Park is hosting a Wild Day Out this weekend, giving visitors the opportunity to discover an amazing array of local wildlife. The event takes place on Sunday June 19 from midday to 4pm, and has been organised by the Conservation Volunteers, the group that manage the urban wetlands that make up the Ecology Park.

Visitors will be able to join in pond dipping, a herbidacious workshop, urban survival quiz trails and wacky wildlife gardening using upcycled objects. There will also be close-up encounters with the park's smallest inhabitants and a session with ecologist and the project officer Tony Day, introducing people to the weird and wonderful world of bees, wasps and ants.

They will also have a chance of spotting some of the amazing birdlife that inhabit the Ecology Park, including summer visitors such as reed warblers and common terns.

A pop-up cafe and barbecue will also be serving hot food, drinks and snacks. The event and all activities are free and open to all over the course of the afternoon.

Tony Day told GT: "Summer is an excellent time of year to come and discover the park at its best with meadows in full flower, birds raising young and insect life abundant. It's also a great opportunity to find out how vital it is that green spaces like this survive in our increasingly urban environment".

LOCAL volunteers are encouraged to help struggling young readers improve their literacy skills.

A reading charity is looking for people to work with children, to make sure they grow up feeling confident about their reading skills.

Beanstalk is a national charity that provides one-to-one support to children who struggle with their reading ability and confidence. They recruit, train and support volunteers to read with children in local primary schools.

Volunteers work with the children twice a week, going into schools to spend half an hour with them, reading, chatting and playing games. Reading Helpers build up a mentoring relationship with the children and use a range of books, games and resources to encourage them to love reading.

Cllr Miranda Williams, cabinet member for children and young people said: "Greenwich has a strong reputation in developing literacy skills in schools as shown by recent national results and we welcome any initiative to help improve this further. Volunteering is a great way to develop additional skills while giving back to and enhancing your community."

Beanstalk offer training and support from a dedicated volunteer coordinator, along with reading resources and the opportunity to share experiences and develop skills with other volunteers.

Denise Ostick, 60, has been volunteering with Beanstalk for eight years and finds being a trained reading helper a rewarding experience. She said: "I'm happy that I can make a difference, as many of the children are unsupported at home or have English as an additional language. I enjoy being with the children and the school is lovely, they make me feel very welcome."

If you are patient and enthusiastic, enjoy working with children and are fluent in spoken and written English, then Beanstalk would like to hear from you. Find out more and apply to be a volunteer online at www.beanstalkcharity.org.uk

First careers fair for primary school

PUPILS at Wingfield primary school are learning about the world of work while they're still in the classroom.

Youngsters at the Kidbrooke school met architects, doctors, travel agents and other professionals during a week focused on choosing a career.

All year groups from the nursery to year 6 took part in a range of job-themed activities at the school in Moorehead Way including assemblies with guest speakers and classroom workshops.

The highlight was a careers fair with 12 professions represented including an architect, doctor, nurse, scriptwriter, travel agent and teacher. Professions were drawn from parents and school contacts including the school nurse and the architect who is designing the new school due to open in autumn 2017.

During the fair youngsters and their parents visited stands while the school's cookery club provided cakes and biscuits.

Year 3 pupil Rosie said: "I enjoyed learning about all the different jobs I can do when I am older. I met an architect at the careers fair and I now think I would like to be an architect when I grow up because I like drawing buildings."

Headteacher Ross Silcock explained the careers week will now be an annual event at the school and pointed to research by the Equality and Human Rights Commission (2011) which concludes that career aspirations are formed at a relatively young age and that formal careers education currently begins too late.

"Good careers education has the potential to tackle inequality, particularly when introduced early. We felt it important for our children, parents and carers to learn about the world of work and the range of career options, which exist through a series of fun and interactive learning experiences. The careers fair was well-

New tenancy agreement after consultation

TERMS and conditions for around 21,000 council tenants are changing under a revised tenancy agreement.

After extensive consultation with residents, the new agreement came into force on July 4.

The revised tenancy agreement was necessary to reflect recent changes in the law, and to address concerns around block security and fire safety.

Cllr Averil Lekau, the council's lead member for housing said: "The new agreement also strengthens the council's ability to deal with anti-social behaviour issues, dog control, and the prevention and detection of tenancy fraud. It takes account of good practice and will make sure that bad behaviour is dealt with promptly to improve the lives of our tenants."

Best of British birthday carnival

PUPILS at Ealdham Primary School celebrated the Queen's historic 90th birthday with a best-of-British themed carnival last month (May 26). Children at the Eltham school spent the week designing costumes and banners, as well as creating dances ready for the occasion. They also prepared food and drink for the big day, which included iconic British fare such as cucumber sandwiches and real lemonade. There were numerous themes for the carnival, including the Queen's birth, the NHS, World Cup '66, the first London Marathon, VE Day, Live Aid, decimalisation, Beatlemania, the Millennium and the Golden Jubilee.

Family friends' football fiesta

by Nichola Dixon

PLAYERS of all ages stepped out on the pitch at The Valley in Charlton for a fundraising football fiesta in aid of local families.

The charity football event was hosted by Home-Start Greenwich with the support of Charlton Football Club and Trust.

There were matches between eight teams of seven to 11-year-olds playing five-a-side and members from the Charlton Athletic Community Trust also played against a team of staff from the Woolwich and Charlton branches of Sainsbury's. Local organiser Kate Shrager explained the Charity Football Match and Family Fund Day also included fun activities including face painting, raffles and more for the 78 children who took part and families who attended.

The event was organised to raise funds and awareness of Home-Start Greenwich and to offer families and the public a fun day.

"Home-Start Greenwich offers emotional and practical support to families in Greenwich, who feel that they need an extra helping hand. We recruit and train volunteers to help families with young children, and without the generous time given by our volunteers we would not be able to help and improve the lives of many families in the borough," said Kate.

The charity currently supports more than 60 local families with children under five and has been working in the borough for 20 years. It has also been commissioned by Greenwich Council to run children's centres at Brookhill, Glyndon, Plumstead and the Slade. The event also celebrated the last two decades, and to show appreciation to the charity's volunteers and sponsors – Kingleigh, Folkhard & Hayward and Barclays.

Holby City actor Alex Walkinshaw was present to give out medals and certificates to all the children and the event raised £4,000 to go towards supporting more families in the future.

Going digital

BOOK a football pitch at your local park, check your child's place on the school waiting lists, find your polling station or pay a bill. You can now do all of these online thanks to the council's drive to improve efficiency and make more services available to all.

Internet usage is at an all-time high with visitors to the council website hitting over 320,000 last month. This continues the upward trend that saw the number of visits to the website increase by 9% on the same month last year.

And it's not only your computer that gives you convenient access, the website is now mobile-friendly and most pages will change to fit the size of your mobile phone screen. While the website still received most visits from traditional desk computers, mobile phone access has grown by 25% over the last year, showing that residents are making the most of the website while on the move. Online services are easy to access and more efficient to run so make sure you are taking advantage of all the royal borough has to offer you online.

New to the borough? Then read the online 'New residents' guide to the borough' for all you could need to help you settle in. Find out all the information about your new area such as who your local councillor is, the day of your bin collection and location of the local schools. It will also guide you on what you need to do as a new resident such as how to tell us you've moved in, set up Council Tax payments and register to vote at your new address. Find the online guide at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/residentwelcomepack

More and more services are going live online, so find out what services the council can offer you more easily. Getting replacement waste sacks for your dustbin required a phone call to the council until the service was transferred online. Last month more than 1500 residents ordered household recycling and waste items with just a few clicks. And this is one of a slew of popular services that have been simplified since going online. Just under 800 people in May informed the council that they were moving house using the online form and more than 500 people requested to pay their Council Tax by direct debit. The number of things you can do online is increasing all the time, and people are making the most of them – make sure you are too.

“ We recognise that our residents and businesses want to contact us about services via the internet ”

As well as making it easier for you, it's all part of the council's efforts to reduce costs and improve efficiency. Every time you do something online rather than pick up the phone you are helping to make the council work for you more efficiently.

Cllr Maureen O'Mara, the borough's cabinet member for customer services, said: "Here in Greenwich we recognise that our residents and businesses want to contact us about services via the internet at a time that suits them. We are rolling out more and more services on the council's website including bookings for sports facilities, online applications for school places and ordering of waste sacks.

"I'm pleased to see that our efforts are paying off, with an increasing number of people visiting our website every month. Over the next few months we will be launching Blue Badge Parking Permits online - and we expect that it will be as well used as the online Parking Permit Renewal service which makes it easier for people to apply without having to come into a service centre or phone us."

Peculiars trio play baroque

TAKE YOUR PICK: Local musician Ibrahim Aziz, cellist Sam Stadlen, James Akers, who plays the oboe

THE series of free concerts, Plumstead Peculiars, continues this weekend with a baroque programme performed by local cellist Ibrahim Aziz and two colleagues.

He will be joined by fellow cellist Sam Stadlen and James Akers who plays the theorbo, a large lute with an extended neck that was used in the 17th and 18th centuries.

The trio, who have performed with artists such as Damon Albarn and Classic BRIT winner Alison Balsom, will be playing music by Vivaldi, Boismortier and others at the concert on Sunday, June 19 from 4pm.

Children are welcome and there will be a chance to chat to the musicians afterwards.

The Plumstead Peculiars one-hour concerts are held at The Ascension Church in Timbercroft Lane, Plumstead and the next one will be on Sunday, July 10 with Masumi Yamamoto playing the harpsichord.

SCENE

ELTHAM'S Bob Hope Theatre is celebrating its 70th anniversary this year with a major building project to improve its facilities and profile.

It has already raised more than half of the £700,000 needed for the scheme – and it is appealing for local people to play a supporting role in raising funds.

Chair Jennifer Sims said the theatre had flourished since its beginnings as a local theatre group in the 1940s and they now wanted to make it even better.

New facilities planned as part of the building project include:

- a new frontage and foyer with improved disabled access and an exhibition space for local artists
- bringing the theatre studio back into use as a base for the youth group and as a rehearsal space
- improved scenery access to the stage and extra backstage toilet facilities.

Among those who started their acting career with the theatre company is Hollywood star Jude Law, a former member of the youth theatre company New Stagers. He said: "The Bob Hope Theatre is a place of creativity within the local community and a stepping stone into a professional career."

Ms Sims said: "The theatre has a fascinating history, from its beginnings as a local theatre group in the 1940s, through the difficult times when it looked as though the theatre building would be lost, to the dramatic rescue by Bob Hope, who ELTHAM Palace returns to its early history with a medieval joust, complete with knights in shining armour thundering head to head on horseback. Visitors can cheer on their favoured knight in this contest of bravery and horsemanship, and find out about life all those centuries ago as they stroll through the colourful encampments in the grounds of the palace. A court jester will entertain in a lighter vein and budding knights can test their own strength in the field.

Eltham Palace was a royal palace in the 14th to the 16th centuries and in the 1930s its remaining features were incorporated into an art deco house by the millionaires, Stephen and Virginia Courtauld. The grand medieval joust is this weekend, June 18 & 19, from 10am - 6pm. Tickets cost £16.60, £14.50 concessions £9.60 children aged 5-15, with family tickets available. A ten per cent discount is on offer on tickets bought online before 3pm on June 17 - visit www.english-heritage.org.uk/elthampalace

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 498

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band BI/B2 both in priority date order. Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- BI or B2 is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and BI/B2.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 22 June 2016 at midday. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 19 June 2016.

Great tributes for The Greatest

FANS: young athletes Tosin Oke, Jenna O'Reilly and Zoe Smith celebrate the award from Ali's foundation at The O2 exhibition, inset, Jenna with boxer David Haye

Plans for Ali sports award

AN annual award for young sportsmen and women may be set up in the royal borough in memory of the legendary boxer Muhammad Ali.

The award could be part of the support offered to young athletes as part of Greenwich Starting Blocks, the charity that supports aspiring athletes from the royal borough.

It follows a £7,500 donation from the boxer's foundation to the Starting Blocks Trust in March when an exhibition dedicated to the life of the boxer opened at The O2.

As crowds thronged to The O2 to see the exhibition dedicated to the heavyweight champion, who died on June 3, local people from the world of sport paid tribute to his inspirational life.

Peter Bunday, who is vice-chair of Greenwich Starting Blocks, and chair of the GLL Sports Foundation, said Ali's death was a "devastating loss".

"He was someone that every sportsman, whatever their sport, looked up to," he told Greenwich Time.

"He was an athlete who stood up for what he believed in, he stood up for specific causes, he believed in harmony amongst society and gave the best years of his life working for that."

Mr Bunday attended the opening of the exhibition, at The O2, when Ali's wife, Lonnie, made the presentation to Starting Blocks. He said he was now in discussions to see if an annual award could be set up to remember Ali's gift.

"I think Greenwich will remember the fact that close to the end of his life, he was still passing on goodwill, and we are hoping to be part of that legacy," he said.

Local boxer Jenna O'Reilly, who is supported by the Trust, was particularly saddened by Ali's death as she had hoped to meet him in London.

She met Lonnie Ali at The O2 in March. "She said she was hoping to get him over in June or July. I am so gutted that I now won't get to meet him," Jenna told GT.

The 20-year-old, who lives in Eltham, was given £250 from the Starting Blocks fund, which she used to buy a new pair of boxing gloves and other training equipment.

She said she would treasure the gloves, adding: "I just wish I could have got him to sign them."

"He was one of the best boxers there is. It was a shame he had Parkinson's disease and even though he had that, he still managed to help people like us."

A message on The O2 website reads: "With the sad news of his passing, all the staff at Muhammad Ali at The O2 offer their deepest sympathies to his family and friends at this difficult time."

"It is both an honour and a pleasure to be involved with an exhibition that celebrates the life and work of a true great, or quite simply The Greatest."

● The exhibition, 'I am the Greatest' is open until August 31 – for tickets and information visit www.aliatheo2.com
Muhammad Ali's funeral service was screened to the public outside The O2 last Friday.

● The town hall's union flag was lowered to half mast in recognition of his achievements and the donation of £7,500 to Starting Blocks.

Hill and George Ball from Shooters Hill Post 16 both claimed bronze.

The team is based at the Eltham Centre and train every Friday evening under head coach Gill Beager, who was also the team manager at the competition and expressed her delight at the results: "It was very close. You can never tell what the other teams are going to bring, but it all came together for us on the day. I'm in awe of what they did, and I'm their coach!"

Cabinet member for culture, creative industries and community well-being, Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald said: "Congratulations to the para swim team on their excellent result. Para swimming is a key development sport for the borough and having these young people achieving at this age shows that we are creating a strong foundation to continue building on in the future."

Balfour Beatty London Youth Games is Europe's biggest annual youth sports event with young people from every borough in the capital taking part in competitions across 30 different sports. The competition continues into July when the final scores will be totalled and the overall winning borough will be announced.
